“喜樂座”，Kirakuza is a young traditional performing arts group led by Toshiyuki Isaka. The group is gaining popularity for its charming stage performances that combine various traditional Japanese instruments such as the Tsugaru shamisen. They have won first place in various categories of traditional performing arts competitions in Japan, and their efforts in traditional culture have been featured in programs on NHK, Japan's public broadcaster. Their activities are not limited to Japan, as they also perform and promote their performances throughout Europe, America, and Asia. In their performances, they incorporate not only purely traditional material but also many modern arrangements, developing their own unique attractiveness with youth and power.

Don't miss their performance, which will be held exclusively for WAO participants!
